

2009 COMPETITION CALENDAR

Nothing distinguishes your work and brings recognition to you and your team more than honors from award programs hosted by LACP.

As organizer of some of the nation's most popular metrics-based communications competitions, LACP delivers a new level of depth and insight about how your work fares against the best—worldwide.

From Europe to Asia, Canada to the U.S., companies large and small compete against peers of similar size and means to earn esteem for their achievements. In fact, more than 5,200 entries competed in LACP competitions last year alone.

Here's your chance to earn due recognition for your hard work in PR and communications. This year's competitions provide ideal platforms for PR professionals to demonstrate the value they are delivering to their organizations and clients.

So whether you support a corporation, non-profit, educational institution, or governmental entity, participating in this year's competitions is the perfect opportunity to have the high quality of your work validated, all in one of the most respected and objective judging conferences in the world.
